FINANCES OF FRANCE IN BAD SHAPE

FLIRTING WITH BANKRUPTCY POINCARÉ THEIR LAST HOPE

To Lead Government Out of the Wilderness of Debt Into Which the Country Was Led By the World War—The New Leader Was Former President and Is Considered a Strong Man—He Will Have To Battle the Radical Element Which Now Has the Upper Hand—A Big Political Tussle.

The franc rallied sharply, two points Thursday in the first quotation since the fall of the Herriot Ministry.

The prospects of a Poincaré Ministry evidently outweighed the consideration that the bank of France's statement showed that the government had borrowed 500,000,000 francs.

Raymond Poincaré, labored all day to constitute a national cabinet and will report to President Gaston Doumergue.

The bare fact that Poincaré, last of the French stalwarts to tackle the financial problem, was at work was sufficient to cause the upward reaction in the exchange. There was no official statement as to progress he had made.

Former Premier Airstide Briand and Edouard Herriot and former Foreign Minister De Selves were among the leaders consulted, after which M. Poincaré announced that things were "going well."

Thursday night he made it known that his "consultations" were completed there remained only a few "conferences" before he would go to the Elysee with his final answer.

The former president smilingly told newspaper correspondents that he did not have to explain the distinction in his mind between consultations and conferences. He accepted the undertaking only in principle, which is taken to mean that his final answer will be in the affirmative only if he is successful in organizing the kind of ministry he desires and may reach an agreement with certain powerful influences to support him.

It is deduced from the circumstances that M. Poincaré already has recruited his ministers and will have no further consultations on the subject.

A confession, it is believed, will be necessary with Albert Sarraut, the new senator from Carcassonne and part owner of the radical organ, La-Depeche de Toulouse, which declared that the radicals could not accept M. Poincaré.

M. Sarraut will confer with M. Poincaré in the presence of Louis Barthou, and the developments may depend upon the outcome of that interview. It therefore is probable that if the Depeche does not indicate a change in policy in its next issue, M. Poincaré care may say to President Roumègue that he cannot form a ministry.

It is understood that M. Briand already has accepted the post of Foreign affairs. Paul Painlevé has agreed in principle to take a portfolio in the new cabinet, while M. Schrameck, one of the radical leaders, is slated for the interior department.

That is all that is known with any certainty regarding the ministry, except that M. Poincaré will take charge of the finance department.

RAISE NEW QUESTION.

Columbus—The widow of Don Mellett, murdered publisher of the Canton Daily News may be a ward under the workmen's compensation act and thereby raise a new question for the industrial commission.

A representative of the Canton Daily News asked the director of industrial relations the procedure for filing a claim.

The commission has held that newspaper reporters are always on duty and therefore eligible to death compensation but the fact Mellett was publisher of the Canton Daily News raises a new side of the question.

HOT WEATHER FOLLOWED BY WIND STORM

All Records Broken—Circleville Sweltered Under 102 Degrees of Heat.

The promised cooler weather made its appearance Thursday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock following a terrific wind-storm, which tore up things generally in the northern portion of the county.

The sweep of the rain storm, which was accompanied by a twister, ran in practically a straight line from the Mackey Ford road, thru South Bloomfield and wound up at East Ringgold. Trees were uprooted, stacked wheat was scattered all over the fields and standing corn was leveled flat. The damage done to growing crops can not be estimated, but will run into the thousands.

The weatherman must have had a considerable stock of heat bottled up the past few days as the temperature for Tuesday was 99; Wednesday, 102 and Thursday 98, and it certainly dried up things in general. A few more days of such abnormal temperature, would have made of this fair land a sizzling Sahara, the Mojava desert of Arizona would not been a comparison.

Down thru the Miami valley and part of the Scioto valley, blue grass turned brown, blades of corn rolled up tighter than a paper lead pencil, and just about the tickness of one. Growing garden crops, such as cabbage and tomatoes were put out of the growing, even leaves of hedges shriveled, which is an unheard of thing in this section of the country. Stock did not suffer as much as it has in previous dry spells, but this is accounted for by the fact that altho it was extremely hot shelter had been provided in the way of sheds and water was plentiful.

The kindly relief sent late Thursday afternoon the atmosphere cooled off to a considerable extent and the night was made comfortable for rest.

The warm weather of the past three days was a record breaker, as it was the hottest reported since the weather bureau was instituted. Blackberries, one of the crops of the hills and valleys, was hit hard.

Keep Floors Beautiful

Beautiful floors are largely a matter of prevention—the great secret is to put them in perfect condition—and then keep them that way. Doorways, passages and tracks become worn and unsightly first. You can keep these spots looking well by waxing them frequently—this requires but little time and effort if a good quality of prepared wax and floor polishing brush are used.

BRIEFLY TOLD

ORDERS LAWYER HELD

FOR COURT CONTEMPT.
If A. J. Florini, Dayton attorney and a candidate for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator, returns to Clark county at any time in the future, he faces arrest on a charge of contempt of court. Such instructions were issued by Common Pleas Judge Frank M. Krapp.

The charge was lodged against the attorney in connection with his remarks during a liquor trial Thursday. On leaving the court room the attorney is declared to have made remarks derogatory to the court. The remarks were reported to the judge, who ordered him arrested. Before the arrest could be made, however, Florini had returned to Dayton.

PROMINENT FARMER TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Robert C. Hill, Despondent
Over Business Affairs,
Suicided Thursday.

R. C. Hill, a retired farmer of Muhlenberg township, committed suicide at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harry Trump, near Darbyville Thursday morning. Mr. Hill had been despondent for several days, he had been worried over some business affairs, and was to appear this coming week in a civil action.

The deceased used an Ivoir-Johnson 32 caliber revolver to end his troubles. He fired the bullet into his right temple sometime between eight and nine o'clock, while he was in bed, and lived thirty minutes after firing the shot. Dr. R. S. Hosler of Ashville, was called and the matter was reported to the county coroner, Dr. O. H. Dunton, but after learning the circumstances surrounding the case, he did not consider it a coroner's case, and the remains were turned over to C. E. Hill, funeral director, to be prepared for burial.

Robert C. Hill was born in Muhlenberg township, September 8, 1851, and was a son of Thomas and Julia Sharp Hill. He married Miss Mary Wilson who died in April, 1922. Four children were born to the couple, three of whom survive. They are Thomas J. Hill, Harry M. Hill and Addie, wife of Harry Trump.

The funeral services will be held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Trump Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be in the Darbyville cemetery. Mr. Hill was a member of the M. E. church of Darbyville. The pallbearers will be veterans of the World war.

Altho not a soldier, Mr. Hill was prominent in war chest work and worked hard to raise money to assist the boys overseas. One of his achievements was raising a large sum of money thru selling a goose, which he sold to the highest bidder, realizing quite a sum of money for the cause. Mr. Hill was very patriotic and did his duty, as he saw it, during the World war. The veterans will act as pallbearers to show their appreciation and to honor him.

T. C. GOOLEY STARTS FUND GOOD CAUSE

Thomas C. Gooley, of New Holland has generously started a fund for the relief of George W. Fellers, the blind broommaker, whose shop and equipment were totally destroyed by fire a few days ago.

Mr. Gooley, who is one of subscribers, has sent to The Union-Herald his check for five dollars with the statement, "I am enclosing $5 to hand to the blind man who had the fire and lost his all this week. I know how to sympathize with him as I have been there."

The Union-Herald with pleasure acknowledges the receipt of Mr. Gooley's contribution to this worthy cause and gladly puts in a like amount.

When misfortunes come, it lightens the burden so much when we learn that human sympathy and human helpfulness are not all in the past.

If there are others willing to assist this afflicted man in his misfortune, we will gladly receive it and make due acknowledgment.

Time on Shipboard

The striking of bells on board ship is a custom of considerable antiquity. Originally the time was kept by half-hour sandglasses and each time the glass was turned the boy in charge struck a bell, and after striking ran along the deck crying out, "One hour passed in two turns and more will pass if God will!"

Dice Used in Old Greece

Dice were known in ancient Greece, and their invention is attributed by some to Psalmes in the Thirteenth century, D. C. The dice exhumed from Thebes differ in no way from the ivory or bone cubes of today. They had spots ranging from one to six on them and the sum of the spots on the two opposite sides was always seven.

Pheasant Fast Walker

A nine-inch stride—this is the secret of the pheasant's speed. There is no American game bird faster on foot than the imported ring-neck. He is the greyhound of the uplands. Instead of flushing before the gunner, he usually prefers to employ his legs, and disappears like a streak, with only a glimpse of the long tail to mark his progress.—Detroit News.

Improve Pasture for Young Lambs

Worry and Grief of Youngsters Averted by Presence of Few Ewes.

As the time for weaning approaches the shepherd should allow the pasture to improve unless it is already at its best. Such desired improvement can be secured by removing a portion of the stock for a few weeks. When separated from their dams the lambs had best be allowed to remain in the pasture to which they have been accustomed.

Avoid Worry and Grief.

If this is done, and a few old ewes that have not raised lambs the present season, of which nearly every flock has more or less, be allowed to remain with the youngsters, very much of the worry and grief of the latter may be avoided, and their movements from point to point rendered comparatively easy. The old sheep will lead the way to the troughs of bran and grain that are part of the outfit of every sheep raiser who is forced to depend upon cured feed during the winter months. The morning is the best time for separating the lambs from the flock, which should be shut in a dry lot the previous evening.

This latter precaution will save much inconvenience from swelled udders of the ewes, which should be kept on scant pasturage for several days to reduce the secretion of milk. A careful watch should be kept over them, and where appearances indicate the approach of overdistension of the udder, it should be promptly emptied by hand. In the majority of cases the precaution against accumulation of milk will be all that is necessary. Some shepherds advise that the lambs be turned with their mothers after one day's separation, remaining only long enough to remove the accumulated milk.

Practical in Small Flocks.

Such a course is practical, however, only in small flocks, and even with these has its disadvantage in prolonging the time required for becoming reconciled to separation on the part of both dam and offspring. When thoroughly dried off the ewes should be given the best possible opportunity for thrift to insure the success of the coupling so necessary for the reproduction of the species.

Carefully Keep Cattle Yards Free of Rubbish

Cattle commonly show a tendency to pick up and swallow objects other than food which they may happen to find in yards or in their feed.

This habit is not always harmless and especially not when the objects are more or less pointed and of metal. Such foreign bodies may consist of pieces of wire, nails, hatpins, hairpins and so on.

After being swallowed they are detained in the second division of the stomach and by the combined motions of the latter and the diaphragm, they are likely to become pushed forward through the wall of the stomach and through the diaphragm finally to become arrested by the structures of the heart.

On their way and when lodged in the heart or its surrounding sac, they give rise to serious septic processes which eventually cause the death of the animal concerned. Prior to death the animal shows fever, grunts and moans when moving, the veins of the neck stand out prominently and a soft doughy swelling of the throat and dewlap is likely to form.

There is no help for such cases, but care that cattle yards are kept free of rubbish, pieces of wire and the debris of old buildings and fences is an effective measure to prevent this deplorable accident. As the condition is a rather common one it always pays to give the matter attention.

Sows Should Be Deloused

When the sows are confined previous to farrowing, they ought to be deloused. The same disinfectant that kills the lice will generally do for washing off the udders so the pigs will not draw in worm eggs with the first milk. The places where the lice and their eggs are thickest are in the creases behind the head, in the wrinkles near the hocks and in the region just back of the forelegs. They are thickest here because the pig cannot rub here and hence she enjoys being scratched in these spots.

Small Orchards Best

The chief reason why farm orchards are so often neglected and become next-to-useless eye sores, is that they are too large. So says Prof. W. S. Brock of the Illinois College of Agriculture. Mr. Brock thinks that 25 trees are enough for the average farm. This number, he says, can be made to produce a nice lot of fruit economically, and without interfering with the other farm work, if proper equipment is used and the necessary attention is given.

Way to Feed Chickens

Poultrymen at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, have found that methods of feeding chickens may vary, provided the ration meets certain essential requirements. Flocks may be fed on mashless rations, on all mash and no scratch grain or on a combination of grain and mash with good results, provided the minimum requirements with respect to each nutrient are furnished.

THE MOOSE MOTTO

In the buildings at Mooseheart, Ill., where the Loyal Order of the Moose has its home and schools for orphans of deceased members, there is displayed prominently a motto reading as follows:

Better hands by work; better bodies by play; better minds by study; better souls by prayer.

The motto was written by Rodney H. Brandon, a member and for many years one of the prominent officials of the Moose order. At the recent gathering at Mooseheart the motto was read to the representatives by James J. Davis, secretary of labor in the cabinet of President Coolidge. He asked that the motto might be taken to the home of members and kept in a place of prominence, that each member of the order might take the motto and make it the rule and guide of his life, as a member and citizen.

The founding of Mooseheart illustrated the purpose to care for the helpless children, devote the energies of the order to human problems. Not only is there an orphanage and home there, but grade and high schools, with vocational schools in which every graduate is taught a trade. The proper development of humanity, training that fits the youngsters for usefulness and independence in life, has been made the work of the order. The motto expresses the foundation ideas of the order on which the work is done. There is much in the motto and in the practical and helpful application of it that appeals to thinking people. It is a motto that leads to usefulness, applied it would mean an increase in the number of worth while citizens.—O. S. Journal.

A cool kitchen soothes troubled nerves

The woman who has to spend summer days cooking over a sizzling hot range has plenty of reasons for losing her amiability.

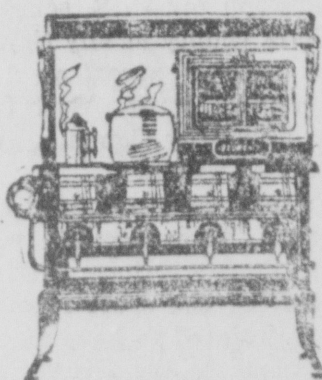

If men had to stand over the heat, they would know why cooking in hot weather makes their wives nervous and irritable. Yet a kitchen need not be so hot in summer.

With a Florence Oil Range the kitchen can be kept cool. The burners deliver the heat only where it is needed—close up under the cooking. The flame is a gas flame. It is not a wick flame such as you see in the ordinary oil lamp or at the end of a candle. The Florence operates at low cost. It is good-looking enough for any kitchen.

Come in and let us show you, with no obligation to yourself, how the Florence can do all your cooking and keep your kitchen cooler and cleaner.

OHIO WHEAT CROP GOOD BUT PRICES APPEAR CHAOTIC

Small Rise Possible, says Crop Review, But a Small Decline Is About as Probable.

Cleveland, July 21.—The price of Ohio wheat is an untable quantity at this time, according to the weekly agricultural review of The Ohio Farmer. It follows:

"Ohio wheat growers will be confronted with a price situation where no one knows whether wheat will go up 10 cents, remain about where it is or decline somewhat. Factors now at hand seem to favor either a market about on present levels or else a moderate advance, but the arguments are not very convincing. Wheat will go up if the outlook continues unfavorable in the spring wheat district and especially if something should happen to the present Canadian prospect for a very large crop. We are very certain to be on a world market basis for wheat this year, which means that the price level will be under that of last year, but the world outlook is for good prices, so that while we may not receive last year's wheat prices we shall nevertheless receive good prices.

"Whether to sell or to store should be decided by each grower on the basis of what his own farm management demands rather than on any attempt to obtain much higher prices.

"The Ohio farmer who holds his wheat at least until the first rush of selling is over may obtain a better price, but the outlook is not very encouraging for prices high enough to pay for the additional labor and the necessary losses in storing wheat.

"There is some slight possibility for wheat to be 15 cents or more a bushel higher within the next 60 days, but it is a pure guess what prices will be. It is rather certain, however, that prices may not be much lower; not more than 10 cents a bushel, say.

"Ohio farmers will profit again through premiums for soft red winter wheat because the crop of this class of wheat is slightly smaller than last year, though Ohio has 9,000,000 more bushels. Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and the Eastern states, which raise most of our soft red winter wheat, have smaller crops. These premiums may not be quite as large as last year because more and more Ohio mills are placing machinery for grinding hard wheat.

"The wheat crop, including both winter and spring wheats, is estimated by the government at 767,000,000 bushels. This is 100,000,000 bushels over last year and gives us enough wheat so that we shall not have to import as we did last year. Hence we will not have much, if any, protection from the tariff.

"The Ohio wheat crop gained 1,500,000 bushels during June as a result of the very favorable weather for the maturing of the small plants as they came through the winter. The yield is now estimated or forecast at 18 bushels per acre. Last year's yield was 15 bushels. Ohio's crop is now estimated the same as the average for the past five years, at 32,000,000 bushels."

The Busy Telephone

Over 6,000,000 telephone calls are made in New York city in a single day. This total materially exceeds the number of phone calls made in all Great Britain within 24 hours, and Boston's daily average of telephone calls is twice that of Paris.

To Develop Vast Peat Bog

Although peat is suitable for domestic fuel it has thus far been undesirable for industrial uses, such as heating boilers and furnaces. So much moisture is absorbed in peat that pressing will not drive it out. A practical method for eliminating this water has been devised by a Canadian firm and the vast peat bog at Alfred, Ont., is about to be developed. Between two and three million tons of peat are estimated to be in the bog and the plan is to make this available to manufacturers in the area between Montreal and Winnipeg, a section devoid of coal.

Seats Provided for the Tired Fisherman

In a fifth-grade geography recitation the pupils were enumerating the industries along the New England coast and also the factors which made these industries profitable in this particular region. Among those named was that of fishing. The teacher then asked whether anyone could tell why so much fishing was done here. Madge,
a girl who was always ready to answer, raised her hand. She named some three or four good conditions favorable for fishing hesitated a moment, then very seriously said, "And they have several good mountains there."

The teacher looked amazed for a few seconds, then said, "Madge, you gave several good conditions; in fact,
all but the last were good, but I can't see what mountains have to do with fishing. What do you mean?"

Madge spoke right up and said,
"Guess the fishermen have to have seats, don't they?" — Indianapolis News.

MEXICO TAMING SAVAGE INDIANS BY KIND USAGE

After Years of Bloodshed Yaquis in the State of Sonora Settle Down to Be Farmers.

Nogales, Ariz.—A problem confronting Mexico for the last twenty years, growing out of the central government's treatment of the Yaqui Indians in the state of Sonora, is in the process of being solved. In effect, the government is seeking to pay a debt owed the Indians through confiscation of lands.

Many years ago the Yaquis, an ordinarily peaceful and industrious tribe, lost their rich lands. Some of their acreage was given to large land concerns by concession. The land was taken over by the government because the Indians were allowed to lie idle. The vast domain dwindled until it was only a tiny parcel.

Then the tribe went on the warpath, withdrawing far into the Bacotate mountains, the strongholds of their fathers. They became treacherous, ferocious and merciless in the torture
of their victims. Diaz, then president, exiled many, killed off others and scattered their bands. This increased their hatred of the Mexican government.

With the passing of Diaz came a calm in many sections of the Indian country, but not until General Obregon became president did the Indians become pacified. They returned to their lands and worked them with the financial assistance of the government.

Since then the Yaqui has been peaceful.
He has been sowing and caring for his lands and developing into a first-class citizen.

Now Mexico is turning its attention to the problem of compensation, but this time not in a spirit of conquest.
The government, through the secretary of the treasury, is to help the Yaqui acquire the acreages settled upon by both Mexican and foreigner.

The central government's plan calls for an order of payment on lands unlawfully acquired or their return. In either case, the Yaqui will be compensated.
Lands taken by the government would be returned to the tribe with only one provision—that they be worked.

Swallows Toothbrush;
X-Ray Locates It

Los Angeles, Calif.—It doesn't pay to attend the solemn rite of polishing off one's tusks with too many flourishes.
For witness the case of one A. C. Fox
of 423 South Palms Verdes street, San Pedro. While cleaning his teeth
he became so zealous that he went beyond the usual molar area and into the tonsil field.

While swabbing lightly about the tonsils he lost his grip upon the toothbrush and unwittingly swallowed it.
Police Surgeon Norman at the Hillside hospital was unable to extricate
it in the early stages of its downward course. Fox was then taken to the General hospital. X-ray pictures have been taken which show that the elusive brush is lodged quietly in Mr.
Fox's stomach.

As yet no course has been decided upon as to the best method of procedure in the case. In the meantime all indications are that he will live, and the patient reports that he is not suffering any great pain.

Master of Morgue for 40 Years to Quit Job

Boston.—Louis A. Pasco, for 40 years in charge of the morgue at the city hospital, who has handled 50,000 identified and unidentified bodies during these years, dubbed at one time
"the master of the unknown dead" by an interne with a penchant for titles, is retiring and will hit the trail, he says,
on a long vacation to the very fountainhead of life in the south seas.

Forty years ago Pasco was working in Tinkham's undertaking rooms when Dr. G. H. M. Rowe, then head of the city hospital, asked him to come to the hospital and take charge of the "dead house" for a couple of weeks.
He went and has been there ever since.
Many a newspaper editor can remember when, as a young reporter,
he came breathlessly to Pasco to see if the murdered man had been identified.

Wins Way to Ballet in Child Dance Contest

Milan.—Winning recognition as an accomplished dancer at the age of seven years paved the way for Rosina Galli to her present position of premiere danseuse and ballet mistress
at the Metropolitan opera house in New York.

The danseuse, who is here on vacation,
has returned to the scene where,
as a little girl, she was taken as a guest to attend a carnival in which prizes for dancing were to be awarded.
The lure of the music carried her into the contest, where she danced with the grace and ease of one with long years of training. Miss Galli received first prize.

Then followed an invitation from Gatti-Casazza, general manager of the Metropolitan, and she became a member of the ballet.

CAL GIVES FISH REST AND ATTENDS TO JOB

Turning from the diversions of life
in the Adirondacks, President Coolidge Thursday observed the business program which he follows daily in Washington. He spent practically the entire morning at the executive offices, arriving at 9 o'clock and remaining until noon. Again in the afternoon, after resting at the White Pine camp,
he went to the offices and gave his attention to government business.

Mr. Coolidge has been kept informed thru the newspapers of the situation in France with the change of cabinets and the fluctuations of the franc
but has let it be known that he does not care to comment on that subject,
as involving the affairs of another country.

Secretary Wilbur of the navy department will arrive Saturday to spend the weekend with the president.
At the executive offices it was said in response to inquiries that no selection
had been made for a successor to Commissioner Fenning of the District of Columbia.

Dwarfed Trees Sell High

More than three hundred dwarfed trees, some only a foot high but as perfect in detail as any monarch of the forest, recently were shown to thousands of admiring Japanese at the national bonsai exhibition in Tokyo. Some were sold for $6,000 each.
Evergreens are the trees usually dwarfed. They are skillfully fed starvation portions of water and shaped with sticks.

Big Building Boom

The recent building boom which has been in progress in all sections of the country has been the cause of razing
many an old building to make way for a newer, larger and more beautiful one. Increases in the value of real estate have made it profitable to remove old buildings so that new ones planned for increased revenue, might be erected.

One-Piece Satin Dress With Unique Touches

This one-piece satin dress, worn by June Marlow, the "movie" star, has a few unique touches which greatly enhance an otherwise very simple afternoon dress. V-shaped pockets made of black and white satin ribbon made into a checkerboard design; straight tight-fitting sleeves, almost detached from the shoulder, also decorated in checkerboard fashion, are indeed novel.

Dalmatique New Summer Wrap for Milady's Wear

A new summer restaurant or theater wrap is the dalmatique in unlined georgette. It is also accompanied by a cape or coat. When the warmer wrap is set aside the dalma-tique may be kept on. With a gray georgette dress embroidered lightly in silver thread a gray sleeveless coat of the kind known as dalma-tique is made to go. The trimming is silver braid or embroidery,
and it borders the armholes, the neck and all round the outer edges of the coat. Over a very delicate beige georgette dress which is trimmed with lace of the same color, a dalma-tique of the same georgette is worn, and for trimming there is beige fox fur. This forms the collar, the edges of the coat are hemmed a four.
With this dress is also worn a beige
cape trimmed with heavy fine silk fringe which entirely covers the material by being set off in deep tiers,
two feet in depth.

New Powder Box That Will Appeal to Women

Practicality has been combined with beauty in the new powder box. It is opened by pressing on a small spring and brings into place when opened a mirror which stands free of the powder or rouge section. The cover acts as a receptacle for rouge. The mirror is held in place by two metal bands attached to both parts of the case. The rouge section takes standard size pills and is manipulated by a flat circular banding with three small prongs which make it easier to adjust and prevent breaking of the finger nails.
The same is true of the powder compartment.

These boxes come in silver and gold with finely chased tops or elaborately ornamented filigree covers set with colored stones. Some of them are attached to silk cords with the separate lipstick holder to match.

Shawls Smaller, Square,
With Deep Heavy Fringe

Many of the new shawls are somewhat smaller and are square in shape, with deep heavy fringes or borders of satin and squares of doubled chiffon in each corner. Lightweight metal brocades as well as heavy crepe satin are used, with the borders in a contrasting color.

Very wide ribbons are shaded in rainbow effect, two or three colors
being beautifully blended.

Frock Trimmings

It's an odd dress that hasn't a string tied to it some place this year.
Loose strings hang from shoulder seams either in front or rear, being tied at the position of the normal waistline; string belts are used on most of the new jumpers, string bows
fall from shoulders and string scarfs
tie about the necks of frocks with V-shaped necklines.

Short Coats

If skirts are getting longer, some evening coats are getting shorter.
These are usually worn over the less elaborate dresses, such as are chosen for the theaters, restaurants and night clubs. One of the latest examples just brought from Paris is a gold lame jacket, knotted at one side. This is meant to be worn with a gold or black satin skirt.

Decorative Coats

For sport wear there are some very attractive long coats of jersey embrodered in self-tones.

Appreciation of Color

Color has come into its own in the American home. The appealing beauty and livableness that result from its proper use are more fully appreciated than ever before. And nowhere is color being used to greater advantage than in the floor.

LOANS TO THE GOVERNMENT.
We all know that individuals, firms and corporations borrow money, but few of us realize that cities, school boards, counties, states and even Uncle Sam himself sometimes is put to it to find the money with which to pay his bills. Not only is money needed to pay current expenses, but most public improvements are made with borrowed money paid back little by little as taxes and other sources of government income come in.

These loans, made by the public, represented by depositors in banks and investors in government securities usually are in two forms. These made to provide funds for ordinary running expenses usually are evidenced by certificates of indebtedness, as the notes of governmental subdivisions are called; those to provide permanent or semi-permanent improvements are 'n bonds.

It is November. The city in which you live has had some extraordinary expenses during the summer. An explosion tore up a big stretch of paved street. A fire burned out a square in the business section and the strain on the water system necessitated relaying a water main. A flood tore out a bridge and a temporary one was built. All of these expenses were necessary, but unforseen when the budget for the year was made and the city, having paid for these things, finds, on November 15, it is broke, and no money available from taxes until January 1.

The city officials, therefore, do just what the individual or the corporation would do in a like case. They go to the bankers and borrow money. Certificates of indebtedness are issued and signed by the proper city officials. These are taken by the banks and the money needed lent to the city to be repaid when tax revenue is available in January.

Bonds, of course, are handled differently. Advertisements are printed by the city, saying that on a certain day it will receive bids for a specific amount of bonds, to be issued to pay for such an improvement. Different banks and bond houses submit bids, and the one offering the most gets the bonds. These bonds then are resold to the general public.

Thus the bank is of Service to the public in still another way, in that it uses the depositors' money, with safety, in helping to carry on the business of that government without which no money and no property and no safety would exist.

NEXT: "BANK INVESTMENTS."

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Mrs. William Hoffman entertained Sunday Mr. and Mrs. John Shellberg of Evanston, Illinois, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carson and son, Irvin, of Chicago, Illinois.

A delightful day was spent Wednesday at Rising park and Miller park when the Boys' Bible class of St. John's Episcopal church entertained fourteen boys of the Emery club of St. Philip's church, Circleville to a picnic. The forenoon was given over to a very close and interesting game of baseball with the St. John's boys winning by the score of 9 to 8.

After a delicious lunch and light games all boys of the both clubs spent the rest of the afternoon swimming at Miller park. The intense heat of the day seemed to mean little and every boy was busy, having a "good time" from morning until evening, when each departed for home very tired and sun-burned but happy after a delightful day.—Lancaster Eagle.

The fourth birthday anniversary of Junior Cromley was celebrated Wednesday evening at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Cromley, with a most delightful dinner served on the lawn. Those present were as follows: Mrs. N. E. Clifton and son, George, Robert and daughter, Mary Eloise, Harold and Junior Imler, Jack Hickey, Minerva Groves, Freddie Brown, Alice Clark, Angie Thomas and Ray Hawk. The out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burks and daughters, Lillian and Ellena Mae, of Detroit, Michigan and Rufus Jenkins, also of Detroit; Mrs. Esther Heely of Akron. The entertainers were the Misses Lucile Cromley and Cleota Thomas. They made the evening full of enjoyment by games, music and singing. They also served the dinner.

Conversational Extremes
"Never trust the strong, silent man," writes an observer. "I have found they are generally silent because they have nothing to say." On the other hand, never trust the man who is always talking. In conversation, as in all other matters, the normal, middle course is the best. While the silent man hears too much, the talkative man hears nothing.

Probably
A Springfield doctor recently removed a rubber eraser from the ear of a school girl. She must have been trying to get something off her mind.—Boston Transcript.

If Break Occurs Any Section
May be Picked Up and Quickly Repaired.

While engaged now in the laying of the world's fastest cable, the ship Colonia keeps a careful record of every mile laid. This is done so that if a break occurs any section of the cable may be picked up without difficulty and the necessary repairs made. The grapple for a broken cable in the black depths of the ocean seems to be an almost hopeless task but so carefully and completely are the records kept that the picking up of a particular section in two or three miles of water is all in the day's work.

When a break occurs in a cable it is possible to tell from the shore by electrical measurements and calculations how far from either end the trouble lies. A cable ship then hurries to the spot which is clearly indicated on the chart made when the cable was laid or last repaired.

Having arrived at the place where the cable is to be picked up the cable ship puts over an anchored buoy to mark the point of departure. It then steams back and forth across the line of cable dragging a grapnel which resembles a five-pronged anchor over the sea floor. In shallow water an ordinary grapnel is used but for depths of a mile or more a special form of grapnel has been devised which, when it hooks the cable, cuts it in two and holds one of the several ends tightly. It is a simple matter, once the cable has been hooked, to splice in a new section and then haul up the other end and splice that on.

Most of the breaks, however, occur in shallow water near the shore as there is little to interfere with the cable's smooth working in the depths of the sea. Near the shore the cable has a host of enemies both animate and inanimate. The worst of these, especially in the warmer waters, is the tereido, the boring sea worm against whose ravages ships' bottoms are copper sheathed and wharf-piles are concreted. As a protection against the tereido the shore ends of cables have a layer of brass tape wound about them between the gutta percha insulation and the galvanized sheathing wires.

In northern waters, icebergs ground ing on shoals, often grind the cables flat exposing the conductor or severing it entirely. Once the carcass of a whale, entangling in many locs of cable, was hauled up by a cable ship. It was disclosed that the animal's death struggle had parted the cable. At another time the story of what had happened to the insulation was told by the finding of a shark's tooth imbedded in the cable's covering. Closer in shore cables are often caught up by the trawls of fishing boats which drag the ocean bottom to a depth of 200 fathoms or more. The first international cable laid from Dover, England to Calais, France, was picked up by a fisherman who thought it was a new kind of eel.

"A religion is at-ays to be tested by its answers to a fourfold question: What does it teach about God, about man, about the relation between God and man? Christianity, like any other religion is a distinctive way of living. But this implies that it was have distinctive ideas about God and man and their relation, since human relationships are always affected or determined by these ideas. As its name implies, Christianity is essentially a Faith from and regarding Christ."—Professor Clelland Boyd McAfee, The Christian Conviction.

Days becoming longer
The oft-expressed wish of the busy man that the day were longer is being gratified, for the earth is steadily reducing its rate of rotation. It will be some time, however, before we need change our habits on this account, because the lengthening of the day is estimated to amount to one-tenth of a second in a thousand years. Frictional resistance to tidal motion of the oceans is blamed for this.

RED GRANGE
MENTIONED IN DIVORCE SUIT

Los Angeles, Cali, July 22, (UP)—Altho he claims to be a better ice man than a movie star, Red Grange has been named in a cross complaint for divorce here by Charles A. Taylor, wealthy oil supply dealer of Beverly Hills.

The football idol, according to Taylor's complaint, filed in superior court humiliated and caused mental anguish for the Beverly Hills man by allowing Mrs. Taylor to sit on his lap and lavish him with affection.

The incident occurred on June 6 last, it is claimed, during an automobile ride. It is further alleged that Mrs. Taylor despite her husband's objections, visited Grange at his hotel rooms and after returning home called him a "wonderful boy." Taylor claimed he detected the smell of liquor on his wife's breath when she returned.

Taylor is a cousin of C. C. Pyle, Grange's business manager. He asserted he was a friend of Grange and that the young ice man had not been named as a correspondent in the suit but merely mentioned "to show how my wife acted."

Moore, Suttles, Jones, Rector and Briggs are the outstanding stars of the club and are well known in Roundtown.

Terry, who was unavoidably detained last Sunday, will be back at first for the Eagles and they will have their full strength on the field.

AMUSEMENTS

Every one in a while a picture comes to town at which the inveterate movie-goer has a grand time. Such a film is Raoul Walsh's production, "The Lucky Lady," at the Met theater.

The story itself is amusing and the company which enacts it, stands far, far above the average. Great Nissen was never cast in a part that fit her better than as Princess Antonette, the girl who falls in love with a young American and then has a terrible time manifesting and proving where her heart really lies.

Lionel Barrymore gives a distinguished performance as the dissolute roue, a role just a bit reminiscent of the part he played in "Enemies of Women." As fine a bit of pantomime as has been seen on our screen in many moons, is the sequence in which Miss Nissen disguises herself as a coquette in order to prove that the roue's heart is fickle. And on seeing the girl, he forgets his professed love for the princess, but follows the little beauty. The two other featured players, William Collier Jr., and Marc MacDermott, each give the splendid performances for which they can always be counted on. Collier is the young American lover and MacDermott, the prime minister who is "promoting" Barrymore's marriage to the princess. "The Lucky Lady" was especially written for the screen by Robert E. Sherwood and Bertram Bloch. James T. O'Donohoe prepared the scenario.

RADIO STORM-FINDER MAY REVOLUTIONIZE NAVIGATION

System Tried on the Navy Cargo Ship Kittery Is Recommended for General Use.

Washington.—Evolution of a hurricane range-finding system by use of radio, barometric pressure charts and weather maps aboard the navy cargo ship Kittery has attracted attention of navy navigators to such an extent that general use of the system by all navigators has been recommended by the department.
Several times the little Kittery, working on the Hampton Roads-West Indian run, has completely escaped storms which did terrific damage to shipping over a wide area, her navigators having spotted the storm path long in advance and either avoided it or put back to port.
The system depends on use of weather bulletins broadcast to mariners by radio twice daily by the Arlington (Va.) and San Francisco naval stations. By putting this data on a weather chart, supplemented by the storm warnings sent out by secondary coastal radio stations, the Kittery, then en route to the West Indies, evaded a hurricane in August, 1924, which seriously damaged great liners and caused distress to shipping from Haiti to Labrador. The Kittery weather chart showed no safe path for the little vessel and she was prudently headed back to port to lay over one day.
A month later the "Little Brother" hurricane, which sailormen say always travels in the wake of such storms, put in its appearance. The Kittery weather map this time showed a clear route down the coast, west of the Bahamas and along the northern Cuban route. She took it and enjoyed fine weather all the way although the storm was so severe that 27 met death on the Island of Tortola, not far off her course.

Finds Tobacco Smoke Spurs Powers of Rats

Berkeley, Calif.—Tobacco users may eventually know the exact effect that indulgence in their favorite weed produces when the experiments now being conducted by Miss Hazel Field of the physiology department of the University of California are completed.
Using rats to test the effect of tobacco, Miss Field has devised an elaborate system of cages and pipes, and keeps records showing what happens to a rat after a "smoke." Pennsylvania leaf tobacco was used throughout the experiment and by using clay pipes and an intermittent system of drawing the smoke through to the cages a typical puff is produced which simulates human smoking.
Miss Field observed that rats, unlike human beings who are learning to smoke, experience no ill effects. After the first few trials the rats seemed to enjoy smoking.
One of the most outstanding results of the experiment, according to the physiologist's report, was that the amount of stimulation produced was marked. After smoking, the rats became unusually active.

Girl, 15 Years Old, Wins Lloyd's Bronze Medal

London, England.—The committee of Lloyd's has awarded the Lloyd's bronze medal for meritorious service to Ethel Langton, fifteen-year-old daughter of the keeper of St. Helen's fort lighthouse, Bembridge. The medal is given to her in recognition of her endurance in keeping the lighthouse lamp working for three days during a gale last March.
The girl was left on the lighthouse while her parents made a dash ashore to replenish the sadly diminished provisions. They could not get back, owing to the gale, and for three days and nights the girl was alone with only her pet dog for company. Undaunted, she kept the light going, climbing 20 feet up a steel ladder at regular intervals to attend to the oil-burning lamp. All the food she had was two pounds of bread.
The Lloyd's bronze medal has not been previously awarded to a woman.

Congo Tribesmen May Be Famed "Missing Link"

London.—A dispatch to the Daily Express from Johannesburg, South Africa, tells of an unnamed traveler who reports having encountered, in the northern Katanga district of the Belgian Congo, a curious tribe of natives whose physical characteristics suggest "the missing link."
The traveler described one individual as half man and half ape. He was six feet tall and had an exceptionally long arm, a projecting jaw, and a receding forehead. He had the normal negroid nose, woolly hair, startling black eyes, a straggly beard, and was of great physique.

Long Row

Boston.—Two Harvard men are to scull their way 1,000 miles. Dr. Thomas K. Richards, who looks after the health of the football team, and Ed Wachter, who teaches rowing and basket ball, plan a trip from Norfolk to Boston in a wherry, hoping to scull 50 miles a day.

HARTMAN THEATER.

A perennial stage success, as much in demand as roses in June, is the rollicking farce, "Twin Beds," by Margaret Mayo and Salisbury Field, announced for production by the Hartman Stock company the week beginning July 26. Not in the remotest corner of the earth is there a community that hasn't at some time in the past ten years been enraptured by this farcical conceit. After a record-breaking run on Broadway, "Twin Beds" toured America for five years with never a suggestion of losing its popularity, and it has become a staple stock revival year in and year out, invariably at the insistent demand of theater patrons.

The Hartman company is particularly well equipped for the adequate presentation of this hilarious farce, and each of the favorites is destined for enthusiastic reception in the skillfully drawn characters of Miss Mayo and Mr. Field.

A most commendable feature of this offering has always been its absolute freedom from coarseness and its appeal to all that is mirthful and wholesome in everyday life. Everybody loves a lover, and in "Twin Beds" there is a brace of lovers that appear in the most awkward, but at the same time most laughable of situations. All the fun in this farce is of the homebrew variety and might be encountered in the best regulated household.

That every healthy human being loves to see himself characterized in the mimic world is a fact that has been demonstrated ever since the theater became a popular mirror of life, and it is this theory that has made "Twin Beds" the favorite play of the decade.

AUTO FATALITIES TOTAL
22,500 DURING YEAR 1925

Report of Underwriters Shows an Increase in Killings of 17,600 Over Preceding Year.

New York.—Automobile fatalities in the United States for 1925 totaled 22,500, an increase of approximately 2,200 over 1924, according to the report of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

The study shows that automobile fatalities in 147 cities, including collisions with street cars and railroad trains, increased from 17,600 in 1924 to 19,800 in 1925. Fatal automobile grade crossing accidents mounted from 1,688 in 1924 to 1,784 in 1925.

The automobile death rate per 100,000 is shown by the report to have increased from 14.9 in 1923 to 15.7 in 1924 and to 17.2 in 1925. The increase from 1923 to 1924, therefore, was 5 per cent, while the increase from 1924 to 1925 was nearly 10 per cent. From this it is deduced that fatal automobile accidents not only are increasing in number but the rate at which they are increasing also is rising.

Registration of cars, the study shows, increased from 17,591,981 in 1924 to 19,954,347 in 1925. Fatality rates on the basis of registration have been decreasing for several years, but the rate for 1925 was practically the same as that for 1924.

Deaths of children under fifteen years of age continue to be one of the most serious aspects of the automobile accident situation, the report says. During 1925 it is estimated that 6,300 children under fifteen years were killed in automobile accidents, as compared to 6,090 in 1924. One encouraging aspect as developed in the study, however, is that deaths of children of less than fifteen years of age increased only about 3 1/2 per cent in 1925 over 1924, whereas the fatalities among adults increased about 15 per cent.

TWO OF FIRST RURAL MAIL CARRIERS

Still On the Job From the Local Post Office.

William B. Watts and George H. May are the only two left of the first rural mail carriers out of the local post office who have been on duty continuously for the past twenty-five years.

Mr. Watts informed The Herald this morning that on his first trip he only had twelve packages of mail and that now it will average 300 pieces daily.

During the 25 years of his service Mr. Watts said that he has used horses, bicycles, motorcycles and Fords in the service.

The carriers used to leave the office at 9 a. m., then it was changed to 10 and under the new time schedule the rural carriers are supposed to leave at 11:30 but Postmaster Foresman can hold them until 12:30.

A man had been told that he could order his collars by post, so he wrote to the hosier's shop, saying, "I have a thick neck, a broad nose, large bushy eyebrows, and a fat body with short legs; what sort of collar do you recommend?" The answer came back: "We recommend a brass one, with a leather strap and buckle, and your name and address engraved on it."

THE ENQUIRER BEWAILS THE PARTY PLIGHT

Democracy Has Borne Many Burdens and Woman's Vote May by Incubus.

This week eight women—three of them out-of-town visitors—met in this city for the alleged purpose of forming "a Florence Allen-for Senate club." A lady from Columbus represented Judge Allen's interests in the matter. Among the number present at the meeting were representatives of the W. C. T. U. and of the Federation of Churches, defined as being "not official" representatives of their organizations.

The Columbus lady politician is reported to have said that with Miss Allen it "would be possible to split the Pomerene vote."

The president of the Hamilton County Women's Democratic club, who was among the eight faithful women voters present, is reported to have said that she felt Judge Allen had not been treated fairly and that she thought Mr. Pomerene should not have become a candidate in the last three days in which it was legal for him to do so.

The Democratic party has carried many a weary burden, has made many and many a sad political mistake. Is it to discover in its woman voter this year an additional disheartening, paralyzing incubus?

The Florence Allen-for-Senator club program appears to be an ingenious movement that is not suggestive of Machiavellian finesse. If the object and purpose of such organizations is to "split the Pomerene vote" what reason that could appeal to Democratic party leaders in the state can be given in justification of such a policy? What is to be gained by it? In what would it profit Judge Allen? Of what assistance could it be to the Democratic party of the state?

Is Mr. Pomerene to be punished by the Democratic women of the state because he became a candidate against his will? Are revenge and emotionalism credentials justifying the exercise of the right of franchise by women? Are the great problems of the state and nation, and of the government's international relationships, matters of secondary consideration with the Democratic women voters of the state? Are they gifted with political omniscience and entirely competent to stand opposed to practically unanimous party leadership and opinion of their party members in the state?

It is significant that Senator Willis is not afraid of the candidacy of Judge Allen. It is reported that his friends are very much disappointed over her practical surrender, evidenced by the release of the Cuyahoga county executive committee from obligation to support her candidacy. The W. C. T. U. and the Federation of Churches are reported to be advocates of Senator Willis, not because of Senator Willis's statesmanship, but because he is a "dry" and can make almost as good a prohibition speech as Senator Borah.

Clubs are not organized or campaigns run without the expenditure of money, and, we take it, Judge Allen is not recklessly spending money in a campaign that can do her but little good, and which might do her a great deal of harm.

Senator Willis does not fear Judge Allen, but he does fear Atlee Pomerene, and for excellent reason. Worth, dignity, character and ability in a political foe are not to be underestimated.

But the disheartening aspect of the business is that a fatuous femininity, proclaiming itself to be representative of the Democratic party and its principles, should so obviously permit itself to become the plaything and the pawn of influences opposed to the nomination and election of one of the most capable and distinguished Democrats the state has ever produced.

The value or worthlessness of the franchise in the hands of woman very well may be demonstrated at the coming primary election.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The invention of improved processes for canning food is, according to an eminent American scientist, one of the greatest discoveries ever made by mankind. It has made unlimited food storage possible and lessened chances of famine.
